EDITORIAL

There should be a word of explanation for this Archon, its smallness, the abundance of advertisements, and—yes, even its promptness. The first question will be best explained and most willingly excused when you see the big Commencement number—we are conserving on paper until then, so that you fellows may have the best Commencement Archon that has ever been produced. Then, as you know, "ads" are the real support of a paper like this which comes to you for so moderate a price, and since they more than pay for the space they take up we feel justified in our Hooverizing on subject matter to make room for advertisements. But for the promptness—nothing could ever explain that, it is unparalleled in the history of this year's Archon, and only Mr. von Fabrice has the secret of the surprise. He'll never tell, rest assured!

The Archon lost a very great friend and a greater help in Mr. Horne who left us recently to go into the Service. Nobody can ever quite fill the place in our hearts which Mr. Horne held, and it is only because my pen is not capable of expressing my thoughts that I do not attempt a eulogy of him. Words are quite futile when we try to express the feeling of the school for Mr. Horne, and I do not feel competent to the task.

There are a few surprises coming to you fellows in the next two numbers—sit tight, and hold on to your hat, for they are going to be “humers.”

HOME LIFE

THE DEBATE

There is not much to say about the 'e with Newburyport, except that we won. We won all right, and we hold the cup,—but—for how long? To hold it permanently we must win two years in succession. We sincerely hope that some spirit will be shown in these coming years, for we can never succeed without enthusiasm. Out of the whole school of sixty fellows, only six showed enough interest to try for the team, and even then within a week these six had dwindled to three. Rather a poor exhibition for a school with a record like Dummer's. But we may console ourselves with the rumors that have come to us of the poor spirit with which Newburyport took their defeat. We are unwilling to believe that these rumors indicate the real sentiments of our worthy opponents, but if they are representative we deplore the fact that we must enter into contests with them for two more years in order to secure our hold on the cup. Dummer was represented by Kenny, Waring and Emn. But the greatest credit is due to those who helped them so very, very much—Mr. Bushee, Dr. Ingham and Mr. Horne. Newburyport was represented by Cleaves, Mcquillin and Ayres. The Judges were, Reverend Glen Tilley Morse, John C. Page and the Reverend Charles S. Holten.

SERVICE FLAGS

One Sunday at the little Byfield church, a service flag was dedicated, bearing stars representing the boys and men who have lived in old Byfield and attended its old church, and are now in the service of Uncle Sam. It is almost needless to say that many of the stars were for Dummer boys. It was an impressive service, Mr. J.

N. Dummer, Dr. Ingham and Mr. Bushee speaking. But now we have our own service flag, given by Mr. R. H. Sherman. It hangs in front of the Schoolhouse, in place of the Morse flag. May the fifty stars representing fifty sons of Dummer who will risk their lives for their country, ever be a reminder of what we owe them and Dummer, and an inspiration to hard work.

LOCALS

A Little More Gas, James!

Worcester: "I had a deaf uncie who was arrested and the Judge gave him his hearing the next morning."

Desperate Desmond: "That's nothing. I once had a blind aunt who walked in a lumber yard and saw dust."

Willie Westinghouse: "G'wan There was a mute down in the carriage works, who picked up a wheel and spoke."

Why, John!

Mills: (learned biology student), "Ah, see the sentiment in the water."

Saunders: "I am never happy unless I can break into song."

Mr. Farrell: "Why don't you get the key and you wouldn't have to break in."

Woodward: "This coffee is like mud."

Snow: "Oh well, it was ground this morning."

Mr. Greene: "I want someone with brains to recite,—Long, take this sentence."

Mr. Bushee: (In study of Literature) "I wont ask any questions about the 'Age of Johnson.'"

Stevens: "Gosh yes, who cares how old Johnson is."

THE ARCHON

Mr. Von Fabrice: "Doesn't that scar on your head bother you, Ackerman?"

Acky: "Oh no, it's next to nothing."

Heard in the Choir

— : "Saunders, are you first bass?"

"Fat": "No, but I can hold down short-stop pretty well."

Mr. Greene: "If all present participles end in 'ant', how do present participles of the first conjugation end?"

Macmahon: "They end in 're'."

Tyler: (at drill) "Is that your right face, you lummox?"

Andy: "It's not my fault, I haven't any other."

Dodge: "I had to get up in the night and shoo the flies out of my room, and I did it without anyone hearing me."

Mr. Farrell: "How did you do that, by using a low shoe?"

Florence: (sweetly) "Milk or water?"

Mills: "Don't tell me, let me guess."

Snow: "What is 'elliptical', sir?"

Mr. Horne: "A kiss, of course."

Student (reading from Milton)

"Or Orpheus to have quite set free,
His half regained Eurydice."

Mr. Horne: "Of course you know the allusion; Orpheus went to Hades to find out where in Hell his wife was."

Macmahon: (Saturday) "May I go house?"

Mr. Farrell: "What do you want, a face cloth?"

Mr. Lacroix: "Did you get the third problem?"

Ackerman: "No."

Mr. Lacroix: "How near were you to the correct answer?"

Ackerman: (thinking) "Three seats away."
